

GEORGE MEN STILL ANGRY.

MOSES OPPENHEIMER LAYS THE MOVE-MENT IS DEAD.

OR NOT HE WILL ACCEPT THE NOMINATION FOR CONTROLLER.

Campaign Committee of the Citizens Union county ticket in New-York and the tickets of the Democratic machines in Kings, Queens and Richmond counties. The George headquarters in the ty upon a lot of gold bugs and traitors to the cause of true Democracy as proclaimed in the Chicago platform." The managers of Mr. George's campaign, who had been told that the crosses Oppenheimer, one of the charter members of the Democratic Alliance, and an influential leader in the movement to bring Bryanism and free silver into the municipal canvass, had

"It cannot be looked upon as anything less than a dirty deal," he said. Then he paid his respects to Tom L. Johnson, Mr. George's campaign director and personal adviser. "If we had wanted to make a deal with the Citizens Union," Mr. Oppenheimer continued, "we could resounding whack. "The Democratic Alliance which gave Mr. George his only real nomination will revolt and refuse to support him."

"Another thing. People are now calling up plaining to reporters what had become of Mr. Stover, Mr. Oppenheimer said:

"The original supporters of Mr. George, who made him a possibility in this campaign, will now drift back to Tammany Hall, where they came from, except a small percentage that will ally themselves with the Social-Labor party. The George movement, so far as results are concerned, is as dead as Julius Caesar."

WARING MAY ACCEPT.

A report was in circulation last night that

Colonel George E. Waring, jr., who was placed upon the George ticket on Saturday for Controller, had refused to accept. Colonel Waring, when seen at his home, in Second-ave., last evening, refused either to confirm or deny the rumor. He said that he would wait until today before making public his decision about the nomination.

Willis J. Abbot, chairman of the Campaign Committee of the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson, said that the committee were in possession of information satisfying them that Colonel Waring would make public his acceptance of the nomination to-day. M. M. Miller, secretary of the George committee, assured callers yesterday that the repugnance to the indorsement of the Citizens Union county ticket was dying out. He said that the meeting held at the headquarters of the Democratic Alliance yesterday did not represent the true sentiment of that body, as a day or two would show.

A LETTER TO GENERAL TRACY.

Chairman Abbot sent a letter last evening to General Tracy, Republican candidate for Mayor, questioning a statement made by the General at the big Republican mass-meeting at Cooper Union on Saturday night. The letter was as follows:

New-York, October 19, 1897.
General Benjamin F. Tracy.
Sir: In the newspaper reports of your speech delivered Saturday night I find this language attributed to you:
"Contrast that with an incident that happened to fall under my own observation in this direction. There came a suggestion to the Republican leaders of this city that probably one of their candidates for the county ticket could be endorsed by the Henry George party. What was the answer? Quick and instantaneous went back the reply: 'No, sir! No candidate on the Republican ticket

Since this incident came under your own observation, you are doubtless able to inform the public who was the Republican candidate to whom overtures were made, and the name of the individual who acted in behalf of Mr. Cleveland.

It is a cardinal principle of the Henry George campaign that no alliance shall be made with the Republican party. Mr. George is offered to the voters of New-York as the regular Democratic nominee for Mayor, nominated by Democrats and standing upon a platform formulated at Chicago in July, 1896. Between him and the Republican party

In all parts of Greater New-York except that in which the formerly Democratic organization has yielded to the disreputable domination of Richard Croker the co-operation between the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson and the regular Democratic organization is complete. In New-York County alliance has been made with the New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad, and the latter is now free from the taint of "Crokerism," and in making this alliance Republicans have been indorsed for office, it has been with the distinct understanding that they stand not as Republican candidates, but as the nominees of an organization

With these facts before you, you will readily understand that the person whom you knew to have made the signatures to one of your fellow candidates in behalf of Mr. George imposed upon you and upon the man to whom he made his proposition. I write to suggest that the cause of political honesty would be materially advanced by unmasking him and all fellows of his type, and to request that you make public all the facts connected with this incident. I am, Yours very respectfully, WILLIS J. ABBOT, Chairman.

General Tracy had retired to bed at the Union League Club, where he is living, before the letter of Chairman Abbott was delivered there, and no reply could therefore be secured from him last night.

The United Democracy seemed to be out of the George movement altogether last night, although it was declared that Henry George was still the candidate of the party. Ex-Senator Bixby said that the whole ticket already put up would be retained. It was too late to take any candidate off the ticket, and, what was more, the Liberty Bell Democracy wouldn't take any. Mr. George objected to running on their ticket he could tell them, and they would run somebody else.

A LOT OF TALK FOR NOTHING.
MEMBERS OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE FIRE

MEMBERS OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE OFF THEIR MOUTHS AND THEN MAKE A DISCOVERY.

From quarrelling with their one-time friends, the United Democracy, the members of the Democratic Alliance have now got to fighting among themselves. When Henry George was first suggested as the candidate of the Independent Democrats the two organizations split upon the contention as to which had the right—by reason of first “discovering” Mr. George—of running the George campaign. Incidentally, it may be added, the controversy was not so much as to which organization should manage the campaign, as which should have the

100